

LIFETIME WARRANTY

Never Replace Another Sootblower Housing Again

As part of our growing commitment to supply our customers with the most reliable and maintenance free sootblower in the industry, Clyde Industries announces a lifetime warranty on all our retractable sootblower housings.

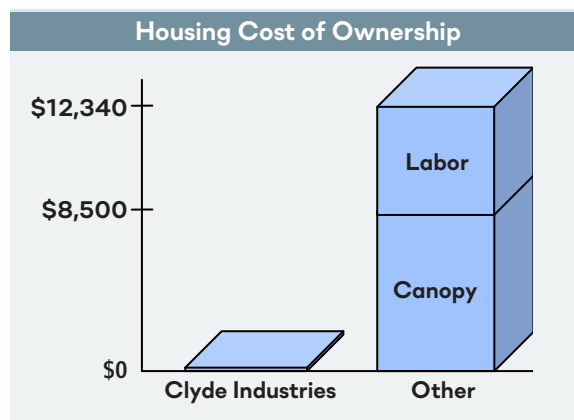

A housing replacement is one of the most costly and time consuming maintenance items a retractable sootblower requires. It not only consists of replacing the canopy, but also the labor to remove and rebuild the existing parts in the new canopy. This process can take up to 5 days, leaving your tube banks vulnerable to slagging while the sootblower is down.

Clyde Industries retracts eliminate these risks with the only housing designed for the extreme conditions of a boiler. Experience shows that traditionally painted, handed sootblower housings need repair or replacement excessively over their lifetime. Due to the galvanized housing, center balanced carriage, and oversized components, our housing never needs replacement and is backed up by the only lifetime warranty in the market.

Clyde Industries sootblowers give you the confidence of knowing you will never need to waste additional money on a housing again, reducing your total cost of ownership and increasing the value of your investment.
